Give That Others

May Live — Give

That YOU May Live!

Every cent you contribute to the ceaseless fight against cancer will be used toward valuable research against the disease, toward educating the public in detecting its danger signals and toward maintaining vital cancer control clinics. Every cent you give will benefit the American public, but remember that the public consists of your neighbors, your friends and YOURSELF. Great progress in the battle by science against this once-unknown enemy has been made in recent years, but much more is to be learned. The knowledge yet to come may be the means of saving the life of one of your friends . . . or your family . . . or yourself.

The widespread program of research and education must have funds on which to draw. Princeton's share is $5,000, but with April nearly at its end, the quota has not been reached. With cancer's toll as high as it is, it is virtually certain that it will pay you to send your check TODAY to the Cancer Control Society, c o Frederick R. Peterson, Princeton Bank & Trust Co.

WE NOMINATE

James King Quay, a veteran of nearly three decades of Christian service in the Near East, who this week was installed as vice-president of Princeton Theological Seminary—the second vice-president in the history of the nation's oldest and largest Presbyterian seminary. Called to his new post January 1, 1948, shortly after retiring from "the field," the former missionary and YMCA World Service man at 62 is still carrying forward the work that has been one of the driving forces in his career, the development of leaders capable of living and teaching the Christian way of life.

The relatively well ordered routine of an educator is a far cry from the years he fought ignorance, poverty and inhumanity in a frequently unfathomable Egypt, which was his headquarters from the close of World War I until early in 1947. His preparation for his present position included organizing a social service program reaching into the lives of hundreds of thousands, direction of emergency aid for prisoners of war interned on the desert and persuading Moslems, Jews and Christians to work in harmony with one another.

A native of East Liverpool, Ohio, and an arts graduate of Monmouth College, Illinois, Quay didn't decide upon the ministry until he had convinced himself that he was fully qualified to serve the Church. And when he had completed his training at the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, he elected missionary service abroad simply because he felt he had to accept the challenges of "new frontiers" in the non-Christian world.

For the next ten years, Quay's "territory" embraced the reaches of the Lower Nile, a 200-mile long stretch dotted with the teeming "mud villages." In 1928 he joined the YMCA World Service staff in Cairo and evolved the patterns of operation that spread from city to city and were endorsed and supported by the Egyptian government as influential factors in training for citizenship. Shortly before he returned to this country, he helped extend "Y" work into middle-eastern Africa and with Haille Selassie made the arrangements that led to the initiation of a Y-directed youth program in Ethiopia.

For constantly seeking to improve the quality of human leadership on the levels where it can mean most; for seeing the importance of battling "isms" by trying to instill democratic and Christian idealism in youth everywhere; for personifying the traditions of full-time Christian service; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

Topics of the Town

Credit Only When Due. "Princeton," one national credit bureau was quoted here this week, "is the slowest-paying town in New Jersey." Although they are hardly in a position to agree openly and individually, many of the town's retail merchants are coming to feel that if they are unanimous on the problem collectively, they are in a position to do the community a great deal of good.

Formation of a retail merchants' association, outlined here last week, will take another forward step next Thursday and is likely to bring with it establishment of a credit bureau. To member stores in all fields would come financial protection in the form of credit ratings on consumers. If accounts receivable could be substantially decreased by cooperative action channeling facts to such a bureau, many a business would see its overhead drop sharply.

Lower operating costs would inevitably be passed on to the consumer—the dependable, deserving type who was the backbone of the community because he paid his bills every 30 days. At first reading, the plan seemed to border on the Utopian but even without disclosing confidential figures there was plenty of evidence that worthwhile possibilities were at hand. One merchant's comment ("I could retire today on the uncollectable accounts on my books over the past 30 years") could be carbon copied elsewhere in town. It was time for the hard-working merchant to benefit by pooling his customer credit relations, and for the majority of Princeton families to stop paying the freight for themselves and some of their hitch-hiking neighbors.

Greenholm Climax. Some 250 persons jammed Borough Hall to capacity-plus Tuesday night for

The Clothes Line Nursery. This is one of those ideas that any mother might have come up with (and certainly almost every mother has need of it) but it took Mrs. Kenneth McLaren to put it into effect. Starting shortly (exact date to be announced) there will be a "Child's Parking Space" under The Little Clothes Line, 53 Palmer Square, for shopping mothers who are beaten down by "Mummy, will you buy me that," "Don't touch anything, dear" and the general confusing interruption that is synonomous with shopping plus offspring.

Their very accommodating basement has been repainted, decorated, etc. with small fry pleasure in mind. There are toys, games, a filled bookcase, chairs, coat rack, bathroom—in short, all the conveniences. There will be supervised play under Mrs. McLaren, who has had nursery school and child care experience, augmented by all the necessary equipment.

So far, we've covered it mainly from the child's angle—details for the parents are as follows: charge—50 cents for the first hour, 25 for each additional half hour; time—9 to 12 and 2 to 5 on weekdays, 9 to 12 on Saturdays. Additional information—use of the "Nursery" is not limited to Clothes Line customers; any child of shopping parents is welcome.

Whipcord Mixables. Joan's Dress Shop, 63 Palmer Square, has come up with one of the better mixables-and-matchables we have seen yet along practicability and durability lines. Whipcord—that wonderful washable, iron-eliminating fabric—is used in suit, two skirts, shorts, beach coat and pedal pushers, all made alike but buyable separately.

They're simple and tailored but have an unusual pocket effect: the inside corners of the slit pockets curve up and around into a half belt that has adjustable side back buttons. The suit is $16.95; boxy beach coat, $8.95; shorts, $4.95; skirts (including a side-zippered

News of the Theatres

THE McCARTER

Patience (Sat., 8.30) marks the annual appearance here of the Blue Hill Troupe in one of the best Gilbert & Sullivan operettas, delightfully played.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Bride of Vengeance (Thurs., Fri., Sat.) is a burlesqued melodrama about the life, loves and treacheries of the Borgia family of 15th century Italy. Paulette Goddard, John Lund in an elaborate costume piece with small purpose. Also, Sat. at 10.30 a.m., Gene Autry in "Rhythm of the Saddle," special children's show. Adult attendance unnecessary.

Portrait of Jennie (Sun thru Wed.) stars Jennifer Jones and Joseph Cotten in romantic fantasy about a young girl who was drowned in a New England hurricane and an artist whose love for her conquers the hereafter. Symbolism is rife in both plot and photography, neither of which are wholly convincing.

Adventure in Baltimore (Thurs., Fri., Sat.) is leisurely-paced entertainment about a young lady (Shirley Temple) who stirs up a storm at the turn of the century over women's rights. Robert Young is her well-provoked clergyman-father in a pleasant if routine comedy.

THE GARDEN

Cover Up (Thurs., Fri., Sat.) tells of a likeable old doctor who kills a rotter and an insurance investigator who gets his man and his girl. Dennis O'Keefe, Barbara Britton in nothing much.

The Mikado (Mon., Tues.) is a fair screen version of the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta set in Japan.

The Tawny Pipit (Wed.), a British film of 1947, is noteworthy mostly for its photographic technique.

The Set-Up (Thurs., Fri., Sat.) takes the fight racket as its theme, comes up with a well-paced story about a boxer who would not throw a crucial match. Robert Ryan, Audrey Totter.

the Greenholm hearing, but less than a score of them spoke. Those who did argued well but virtually every one had a personal stake of one sort or another in the matter.

At the end of two hours and 20 minutes and an estimated 22,500 words on the subject and allied topics, the governing body adjourned to hand down its decision on May 10.

If the mayor and five councilmen were unimpressed by the arguments for the route through Greenholm, they may (1) pass the measure for the northern route as it stands or (2) amend it slightly so that it runs straight into John Street and does not bend into Jackson. But by far the loudest applause of the evening greeted the suggestion by Councilman George R. Griffing that the cost of acquiring the central route by condemnation be determined and the matter put be-
